Job Description

The School of Architecture and Planning at the University at Buffalo, The State University of New York (SUNY), invites candidates to serve as the Stratigakos Fellow.

The fellowship is a one-semester visiting faculty position at UB, supporting research on the built environment as a vehicle for the creation of more inclusive communities, with a focus on gender and sexuality in architecture. Established by faculty member Despina Stratigakos, whose research examines how power and ideology function in architecture, the fellowship seeks to interrogate how inequities based on wealth, race, gender and physical ability are reinforced by patterns of land use and ownership, the organization of cities, and the design of space and place. A writer, historian and educator, Stratigakos has also gifted more than 150 books from her own shelves to form the Despina Stratigakos Women in Architecture Book Collection in the UB Libraries. The collection will serve as a resource for fellows and the public.

The preferred timeline of the fellowship is for the Spring 2024 semester, though applicants for the Fall 2024 semester will also be considered. Application review will begin December 1. Note: this position is not eligible for immigration sponsorship.

Primary Roles and Responsibilities:

- Develop a research/design project related to gender and sexuality in architecture. The final output of this project may include, but is not limited to, any combination of the following: a physical and/or digital exhibition, a public talk, and/or a symposium with invited guests.
- Teach a graduate-level, 3-credit elective course (remote or in-person, once weekly) centering on the theme of gender and sexuality in architecture. The work of this course may or may not support the development of your final project/event.
- Provide students with appropriate learning materials and expertise in assigned subjects.
- Evaluate students' performance and provide effective feedback to guide student learning and success.
