Faculty

Job Description:

Summary of Duties and Responsibilities:

The Department of Interior Design in the College of Design at Iowa State University (ISU) invites applicants for the position of tenure-track Assistant Professor position with an anticipated start date on August 16, 2025. Exceptional candidates with commensurate experience and a proven track record will be considered for tenure and the advanced rank of Associate Professor.

The department seeks an enthusiastic and dedicated design educator with innovative, creative, and emerging approaches to design pedagogy and research. Successful candidates will demonstrate an understanding of contemporary topics in interior design and related fields, informed by diverse and forward-thinking perspectives. We seek educators who create and foster design excellence and value interdisciplinary collaboration. This role requires maintaining an active record of creative research and/or scholarship in interior design related areas, with a focus on how these explorations inform and shape the future of design education and the profession. Applicants will also be expected to contribute to advancing initiatives that align with the department's core value and mission of examining how design can contribute to a holistic approach to individual well-being.

Candidates will have the opportunity to teach design studios, seminars, and lecture courses for a diverse student body at the undergraduate and graduate levels and mentor graduate students. Additionally, participation in service activities within the department, college, university, and the broader ISU community is expected. Candidates should possess strong communication skills, a commitment to enhancing excellence, and exhibit the potential for long-term leadership in supporting the mission of the department, college, and university.

The Department of Interior Design is committed to sustaining a collegial, positive, and productive environment for each individual and the collective benefit of all. All faculty members are expected to exhibit and convey good citizenship within department, college, and university activities, interact collegially and maintain the highest standards of integrity and ethical behavior.
