Job Description

The School of Architecture, Planning, and Landscape Architecture at Auburn University invites applications for the position of Lecturer and Rural Studio Design-Build Manager commencing May 2025. The School of Architecture, Planning, and Landscape Architecture (APLA) has a 118-year history of educating architects, interior architects, landscape architects, and planners. The school contributes to the region and to the profession through outreach, scholarship, and creative work. APLA includes four allied disciplines: Architecture, Interior Architecture, Environmental Design, and Landscape Architecture, and it offers both Bachelor's and Master's degree options. APLA resides in the College of Architecture, Design and Construction along with the School of Industrial and Graphic Design and the McWhorter School of Building Science.

The Architecture program seeks candidates who are interested in supporting the school's tradition of teaching and learning through fabrication, construction and materials research. Candidates should have a strong interest and experience in design-build education and/or practice.
