Visiting Assistant Professor | Architecture or Interior Design

The College of Architecture, Art and Design (CAAD) at American University of Sharjah (AUS) invites applications for a 10-month, visiting position in the Department of Architecture at the rank of Assistant Professor. Teaching in the Department of Architecture includes a broad range of focus areas, including beginning design, architectural design, interior design, urban design, fabrication, integrated design, building technology and computation. Demonstrated experience and flexibility in teaching across multiple design disciplines and the ability to teach design studios at various levels—especially beginning design and core studio curriculum courses—will be considered an asset. Applicants will be expected to mentor students through an established advising process and to participate in service activities for the department, college and university. The position is subject to funding availability.

Qualifications

For positions in architecture, a terminal degree, typically a Master of Architecture (or equivalent), is required. Licensure and a thorough knowledge of design history, theory and practice are desirable. For positions in interior design, a degree in interior design (MFA, MID, MA or equivalent) and professional experience in interior design is required. Applicants who have academic experience with the North American model of studio-based design education are preferred. Review of applications will begin in December 2024 and continue until the position is filled. Successful candidates are expected to assume duties in August 2025.

CAAD and AUS

The department has a tradition of faculty-led summer study abroad programs in Europe and East Asia, as well as a fall semester studio based in Barcelona. Our programs are committed to balancing core disciplinary competence in the design of buildings with advanced studios focused on full-scale fabrication, contemporary urbanism and environmental sustainability.
