- Have experience coaching chamber music ensembles;
- Show a record of performance success;
- Will actively contribute to a campus community that promotes cultural diversity and multicultural understanding;
- Bring energy and positivity to their interactions, fostering a vibrant and dynamic environment; and
- Have a vested interest in exploring applications of music beyond the conventional realms.

Bonus qualifications include experience in course design and a proven ability to weave different fields of knowledge into the fabric of their teaching approach.

Primary Duties & Responsibilities:

- Teach intermediate to advanced level piano lessons to music majors, minors, and non-majors;
- Coach chamber music ensembles consisting of students representing a wide spectrum of experience and ability;
- Work collaboratively with faculty colleagues and contribute to the long-range goals of the keyboard program;
- Coordinate and participate in piano juries;
- Serve on student recital juries;
- Evaluate audition materials from students applying for admission to Stanford;
- Maintain an active departmental presence that includes participation in concerts and faculty recitals, and attendance at on-campus performances; and
- Engage fully with Stanford's scholarly and entrepreneurial environment.

Qualifications/Required Skills:

- Professional experience equivalent to a Doctorate in Music
- Distinguished professional reputation and a well-documented history of success as a pianist;
- Documented success teaching piano in an accredited higher education institution or equivalent professional setting;
- Excellent interpersonal and communication skills;
- High degree of organization; and
- Demonstrated interest in community engagement and/or interdisciplinary activities is desirable.

Application Instructions:

For full consideration, please submit the following materials in PDF format by January 10, 2025 to Bryan Hardester, Director of Finance and Operations at bhardest@stanford.edu:
